

FSU's Foley sparkles but Spartans win title

IRVINE — Bryan Foley was brilliant Saturday for Fresno State but San Jose State had too much speed for everyone at the Pacific Coast Athletic Association track championships.

Ernie Bullard's Spartans scored 13 points in the 100 meters to turn a close meet San Jose's way and went on to claim the PCAA team championship by a decisive margin on UC Irvine's swift all-weather track.

Hanford's Ken Thomas led a 1-2-4-5 Spartan finish in the 100 with a meet-record 10.36 clocking for the turning point as San Jose rolled up 86 points to outdistance Long Beach State (65) and first-day leader Fresno State (59). Despite some disappointments, FSU nearly doubled the point total it managed in last year's PCAA meet.

Foley was one Bulldog who came through magnificently in Dutch Warmerdam's PCAA finale. Although favored in neither, he won the 1,500 meters in 3:47.4 and came back an hour later to capture the 800 in 1:51.3, both times just off his career bests.

But no Bulldog teammate could finish higher than third on a warm, breezy afternoon and FSU needed optimum efforts from everyone to be a legitimate factor in the team race. Long Beach also had its disappointments while nearly everything went well for San Jose.

The Spartans started the day strongly, winning the 400 relay in 39.92, but Long Beach had moved into the lead after scoring well in the 400 meters. The 100, matching San Jose's Thomas and Will Jackson against Long Beach's Horace Berry, figured to be the pivotal race.

Thomas, powerfully built at 192 pounds, moved in front of Berry after 30 meters and continued to pull away in the sprint to the tape in record time, erasing LaMonte King's 10.46 PCAA standard. Jackson (10.51) nosed out Berry (10.52) for second and Spartans Tim Foster (10.66) and Phil Williams (10.69) finished fourth and fifth.

That shot the Spartans into the lead and they extended it when Thurllis Gibbs (71¼) won the high jump and Curt Ransford launched a PCAA-record 267-4 javlin throw. Foster came back to win the 200 and it was all over for The Beach and FSU.

"I told the sprinters it was up to them," said Bullard. "Ken Thomas has been a leader all season and his brother (Jewerl) has been a big influence on him. We'd better enjoy this one, because there might not be many more. It looks like we'll be cut back from 11½ to 5 scholarships next year and there's no way you can win this meet without depth."

Foley dealt San Jose its only major setback when he upset favorite Stan Ross in the 1500.

The Bulldog junior came back to upset favorite Larry Gonzales of Exeter and Long Beach State in the two-lapper, an amazing feat considering the fact that he was going against a field of fresh runners in that race. Foley was the only 800 contender who'd run the 1500 earlier in the day.

Foley followed a similar race strategy in each event. In the 1500, he was well back in eighth place after the first lap, gradually moving up to third on the final lap behind Ross and Joe Young of UC Irvine. Young whipped past Ross on turn three but Foley broke to the outside to pass both on the final turn and win by 15 yards.

In the 800, Foley was last in a field of nine runners after the first lap. But he moved up to fourth coming off the second turn, kicked into third with 200 meters to go and moved up on the outside to pass Gonzales with 70 meters to go. He won by five yards over UC Santa Barbara's Mark Elwell (1:51.6) as Gonzales (1:51.7) faded to third.

"I feel like Bruce Jenner today, ready for anything," grinned Foley afterward. "If they'd gone out faster in the 800, I'd have been in trouble trying to stay with them. But the pace was slow and I felt pretty springy (legged) all the way. I didn't know if I had enough left, but they started tying up down the stretch and I was able to pass them."
